

Abstract

A catalyst system containing an ionic liquid dispersed on a support having an average pore diameter greater than about 225Å is disclosed. The catalyst system is employed in a process to disproportionate a C₅ paraffin.